At a special christening service, which was attended by several hundred residents of French Village, the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. James of that place were christened by the Reverend Father Weggman, rector of St. Phillips's Church of French Village. The children range in age from 5 weeks to 11 years, and the christening marks a record for such a large number in any one family in French Village.

Mr. and-Mrs. James are old members of the St. Phillips's Church and attend the services there regularly. Why they have never had their children christened at the usual time, they cannot explain beyond the statement that they just kept putting it off. Mr. James is one of the popular conductors in the employ of the East St. Louis and
